adapting section 4(c) of such Part 429, if the Commission determines that a cigarette, because of its unique or nontraditional characteristics, cannot be tested in accordance with the test method prescribed by the Commission, the manufacturer of such cigarette may propose a test method and performance standard for such cigarette. If the Commission finds the proposed method and standard to be equivalent to the test method and performance standard otherwise established by the Commission, the Commission may approve the method and standard and the manufacturer of such cigarette may employ such test method and performance standard to certify the cigarette pursuant to rules prescribed by this Act.

Winter heating costs may double. Let's make sure house fires don't!

By Delores Gempel Lekowski

*Author of The Hurting Angels and The Power Angels

The fear of heating cost increases has generated an interest in alternative heating. We are winterizing our homes as we never have before, and many are seeking other heat sources in an attempt to keep their heating bills manageable. Let's just make sure that these alternative heating sources don't increase the potential for house fires!

Furnaces may be the safest method of home heating (and now would be a good time to have your annual maintenance done on your furnace if you haven't already done so). But you may be looking for a more economical way to heat your home this winter. While turning down the furnace thermostat and firing up kerosene heaters, wood stoves, space heaters or fireplaces, we must be mindful of fire safety practices and follow the manufacturer's assembly, operating and maintenance procedures at all times.

NEVER use a kitchen range or oven to heat your house, because it could overheat or generate carbon monoxide. And no matter what kind of heating system you use, make sure you
